Subject: Ross demolition and construction update

Dear Ross faculty, staff and students,

Many of you may have noticed the webcam on the Ross Technology page, which provides a live camera feed of the demolition process. We are pleased to announce that this link also may be found on the Community Creation website along with the University's Architecture, Engineering and Construction (AEC) webcam. The latter is located in the Law School, saves images every ten minutes during demolition and will save every hour during construction.

Additionally, we have activated the Photo Gallery on this site and will continue to feature still photos throughout the project. Many thanks to Christy King and A.J. Dziak for providing early photos of the time capsule retrieval, the Alessi courtyard excavation and early demolition.
