Subject: New Building Website is live

Dear Ross School Colleagues and Students:

The website dedicated to the new building is now live! Titled "Community Creation, 2006 - 2008", it can be accessed from the Ross School of Business home page by clicking on the graphic "Learn More About the New Building".

Basic information about the project—timeline, Q&A, renderings of the new building, what students, faculty and staff need to know about relocating during the two-year construction period, and a campus history—are currently available.

We hope you find this information helpful. As the project continues to evolve, new information will be posted.

Many thanks to all who provided assistance on this project. Have a wonderful holiday weekend.

Best regards,
