

The Center for Positive Organizational Scholarship (Center for POS) is a community of scholars devoted to energizing and transforming organizations through research on the theory and practice of positive organizing and leadership. We are passionately dedicated to the development and dissemination of POS research.

Opportunities for Undergraduates

Independent Study: The faculty members of the Center, all in the Management and Organizations area of the Stephen M. Ross School of Business, have research projects ongoing throughout the year. Students who wish to investigate a topic more thoroughly or to participate in faculty-directed research may earn course credit at the lower and upper levels. Explore Center for POS faculty profiles on the Center for POS website for information on their respective research interests.

Faculty-Student Research Collaborations: Undergraduates with a passion for POS and the motivation to conduct independent research may consult with Center for POS faculty explore the possibility of assisting Center for POS faculty in developing stand-alone modules based on existing POS tools.

Undergraduate Summer Fellowship Program: The POS Summer Fellows Program is available for students to gain research experience and to deepen their knowledge of the field of POS and its application in organizations. To apply for Summer 2011, please email positiveorg@umich.edu by April 1, 2011. Please also see the News and Events page on the Center for POS website for a feature on the 2009 POS Summer Fellows.

POS-related Courses: The following POS courses are offered in the Management and Organizations area at the Stephen M. Ross School of Business:

- MO 314 - Managing Change (Gretchen Spreitzer, Fall 2010)
- MO 324 - Managing Professional Relationships (Wayne Baker, Fall 2010)

Positive Links Speaker Series: Positive Links is a monthly speaker series on topics related to POS. Hosted by the Center and led by scholars and practitioners from around North America, Positive Links is an opportunity to learn and discuss new research and emerging POS practices. Visit the Center for POS website for information about upcoming sessions, as well as video streams of most past sessions. Email positiveorg@umich.edu to be added to the invitation list.

Electronic Newsletter: Sign up for Insight | Inspiration | Impact.

Center for POS website: <http://www.bus.umich.edu/Positive/>