

Syllabus Statement

Recommended text to include on syllabi when Required Special Participatory Course Materials are assigned

Each student must pay individually for the required special participatory course materials because these include royalties for simulations and/or online tutorials and/or negotiation exercises used in the class. This material cannot be shared (even among spouses) because the user fee is per person.

You must purchase the participatory course materials by the deadline date and (of course) participate in the exercise(s) in order to receive a passing grade for the course. A grade will not be assigned to any student who has not paid for the participatory course materials.

Please review your Canvas Announcements for instructions on how to pay for the special participatory course materials, or contact kresge_learn@umich.edu. Access to the participatory materials will be provided at a later date based on the payment information collected for this course.

Finally, do NOT share any information about course materials with students who have not taken this class. It is an honor code violation to post anything about the material used in this class on a public web site.

Copyrights: Materials used in class, including but not limited to, handouts, exercises, cases, discussion questions, charts, and graphs, are copyrighted and may not be used for purposes other than the educational experience of the class without the written consent of the instructor or the copyright holder.
